

FAM Global Income Strategy

31 January 2025

Our Strategy

Bond markets experienced a massive reset in 2022 when the US Federal Reserve embarked on the fastest interest rate hiking cycle in modern history, bringing great opportunities for long-term fixed income investors. The FAM Global Income (FGI) strategy is designed as a choice for investors who want to receive regular income but also recognize that the opportunity comes with a more unpredictable landscape going forward. Beyond traditional markets and asset classes, FGI aims to generate multiple streams of truly diversified and solid income, with potential capital appreciation to prepare for the uncertain world.

Multi asset holding beyond traditional fixed income and equity

Generate solid income targeted at 6% per annum

FVT

Focus on undervalued opportunities with good fundamentals in sustainable trends

Enhanced Income Solution

Since July 2023, FGI has focused its strategy on taking advantage of the higher interest rate environment. By going beyond common Developed Markets into underappreciated Emerging Markets and Alternative assets, the strategy captures attractive solid income from diversified sources across global markets.

Embrace higher yields in underappreciated markets

Compared to more common Developed Market bonds, Emerging Market and Asia High Yield bonds are higher yielding options, providing solid income with potential upside.

Income potential from Alternative Assets

Non-market related (-0.01 correlation) investment is giving around 10% income in years 2022 and 2023 compared to the average 3.3% average income over the past 13 years.

Discerning The Signals From The Noise

A three-pronged research process to identify signals that point us to sustainable trends which are underappreciated by the market, which come with good fundamentals and attractive valuation, with a higher likelihood of outperforming over the long term.

Fundamental

Study financial and economic data (e.g. GDP, unemployment rate, and inflation rate etc.) that may drive market movement to find opportunities with good fundamentals that are underappreciated.

Valuation

Picking the right valuation metrics (e.g. price-to-earnings, price-to-book, EV/EBITDA etc.) to spot undervalued opportunities and avoid overpaying for any investment with only good stories.

Trend

Seek inflection points in sustainable trends to capture overlooked opportunities and avoid less recognised risks (such as the end of a bond supercycle).

High Level of Active Management

Many actively managed funds underperform because they have a low active share. This happens when a portfolio's holdings are very similar to the referenced benchmark, a practice commonly referred to as 'benchmark hugging'. In contrast, funds with a high level of active management may have greater potential for outperformance in the long run, as there is no way any fund can outperform the market if they are investing like the market.

By investing in areas where we have the greatest conviction and applying it to our whole portfolio, we aim to provide better returns over risk through a full market cycle.

Market & Portfolio Developments

Commentary

Good start to 2025

FGI started 2025 with gains of 1.73%, building on the strong momentum of 2024. This is compared to the 0.39% of the popular investment grade bond market. This performance belies a see-saw January in equity and bond markets where global equities and bonds moved in tandem, selling off in the first two weeks, then rebounding together. This is a reminder that one may not achieve effective diversification just from traditional asset classes.

FGI outperformed by capturing opportunities in traditional and alternative income

Looking into the contributors shows how FGI can generate returns while being diversified. The fixed income book saw gains from emerging market high yield credit which has been going well and continues to offer interesting risk-reward vs other credit markets. There was also contribution from developed market investment grade credit which we added as fixed income markets bottomed in the middle of the month.

FGI also benefitted from gains in equities driven by developed market exposures, offset by declines in China amid news that Tencent was put on a Pentagon blacklist.

Apart from better returns, FGI also had better risk-adjusted returns. The fund was down -0.35% intra-month at its worst while a 30:70 (equity:bond) portfolio or popular income strategies had declines of at least twice that. Certainly, the exposure to uncorrelated alternative income helped. FGI primarily taps into opportunities in the traditional markets but benefits from our capabilities in alternative income as well.

Challenges for income investors under Trump 2.0 require thinking differently

A world under Trump 2.0 presents challenges that income investors have not had to deal with before. The higher costs and disrupted supply chains from tariffs could impact traditionally stable dividend-paying sectors. Credit markets may also feel the strain as earnings forecasts become less predictable, raising concerns about bond downgrades. Meanwhile, interest rate expectations remain volatile due to Trump's unpredictable policies, complicating the fixed-income landscape. One has to think about their income portfolio differently to address these challenges. Emerging market credit has proven resilient, benefiting from proactive central bank policies, while developed market credit continues to offer select opportunities. Given the uncertain rate environment, we maintain a preference for short-duration assets to mitigate interest rate risks while capturing higher income.

Key Position Highlights

We highlight positions that reflect the strategy's tactical asset allocation view, backed by our study of market patterns and trends over time. As a result, our strategies can be highly differentiated from conventional benchmarks, with the aim of long-term investment success.

Alternative Assets To Provide An Attractive And Differentiated Source of Income

- Alternatives are an essential part of any income strategy going forward. FGI's alternative income provides stable and uncorrelated returns for investors.
- Traditional income investments experienced large price swings and declines in 2022 as the Fed embarked on one of the fastest interest rate increases in recent memory.
- Differentiated alternative income assets such as music royalties and assets with 'toll-booth' investment qualities (that offer significant recurring revenue for their investors) offer the potential to generate stable income independent of traditional equity and bond performance.
- FGI's current focus is on insurance-linked alternative assets due to the high-income potential offered (~10%) while being highly differentiated from market risks.
